Vol. 74

A new command I give you: Love one another. As I have loved you, so you must love one another. ³⁵ By this everyone will know that you are my disciples, if you love one another."

John 13:34-35

Caring is Contagious

Are you ever surprised by people? Do you ask yourself what makes one person sensitive and caring, and another harsh and insensitive when both have grown up in the same environment? If you've ever read Victor Frankl, the psychiatrist who was sent to a concentration camp in Germany, you'll marvel at the fact the same situation turns some people into blood-thirsty, selfish animals and others into caring, compassionate individuals who are almost saintly.

What can turn a selfish, uncaring human being into a compassionate, sensitive person who can empathize with others? There's one thing for certain: an encounter with a loving, caring individual can change a person's life. Such were the experiences of those who encountered Jesus Christ when he was here on earth.

Notice how the lives of people were changed when Jesus touched them. Consider some of these: Mary Magdalene, a woman who seemed intent on self-destruction, driven by demons. Zacchaeus, who became willing to return four-fold what he had extorted from people. Matthew, who was willing to walk away from a lucrative position to follow the Master. All of these were people who stopped making themselves their primary focus of existence and actually learned to care deeply about others.

Their encounter with Jesus Christ changed the focus of their lives from solely pleasure seeking to care and compassion for others. In simple terms, compassion and care are highly contagious, but they can be caught only by direct contact with someone who has them.

One of the words translated "compassion" in the New Testament is a word that refers to our inner being, or viscera. Caring comes from a changed heart, and when your innermost being is still seething in anger and hatred, the ability to care is stifled or non-existent.

In closing, may I ask you a tough question? How much do you care? About your spouse, your family, your parents, your colleagues at work, your classmates, your friends? As long as "self" reigns king, you'll never touch the lives of anyone with compassion because selfishness must give way to concern and concern to care and care to compassion. It's a cycle that begins when you wake up and realize there are others who count besides yourself.

Just before he faced the cross, Jesus gave his disciples a new commandment: "...love one another, even as I have loved you..." (John 13:34-5). It takes time. It will cost you, but living out a life of care for others is what attracts them to Christ.

Thank you for the way you have cared for me and my family. Thank you for the cards and calls for Pastor Appreciation Month. Thank you for the calls and prayers as my family healed from Covid. Thank you for loving as Christ loved.

Pastor Zane

2022 Thanksgiving Offering Time

—November 13th and 20th

The Thanksgiving offering benefits our Christian Church (Disciples) colleges, universities and seminaries. In our state, Columbia College, Culver-Stockton College, Drury University, and William Woods University are all recipients of chaplaincy programs, departments of religious and Christian studies, and mission opportunities for students, nearby and in other countries.

Please make your check to First Christian Church and clearly note it, "Thanksgiving Offering".

Thank you!
